DEMOCRATS NOMINATE WILSON AND MARSHALL

Will of the People Again Overruled

Baltimore, July 3.—The Democratic National Convention adjourned at 1:56 this morning, after having nominated Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for President, and Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, for Vice President, and adopting an extremely radical platform drawn by Bryan and his supporters.

The platform was adopted without division or discussion during the evening session, before the Vice President was selected. In striking contrast to the opening days of the convention was the love feast which marked the closing hours of the convention.

The striking feature of the evening session was the ovation given Bryan, who had been nominated for vice president, when he took the platform to decline the honor, and deliver what he called his告别词 (farewell address). He was greeted with great applause at the close.

SUMMER READING

The attention of the public is called to the recent addition to the Library of a large number of the best novels of the last few months, as well as many others of the last year or two. The titles have been chosen with exceptional care, and among them will be found the majority of the "best sellers" of the last year.

It is of course impossible for us to purchase very largely, but the additions of the last year will be found to offer a wide range of authors and types. Although the number of card holders has largely increased and the circulation has nearly doubled in a year, the shelves will, on any day, afford almost anyone more than one book that will meet the demand for "something good." If the book you especially wish is out, you can register your name for it and have it in turn.

Transients may withdraw books without cards on making a deposit. Lovers of Dickens are particularly invited to examine the recently purchased set of his works in thirty volumes. This is the largest type Dickens ever printed, with hundreds of illustrations, and richly bound. This is Dickens' Centennial Year and interest in his novels is reviving everywhere. Why not read some of his tales of never-dying interest?

Among the books of the last few months of special interest and popularity may be noted: The Street Called Straight, Queed, Tante, Fran, Hears and Masks, The Harvester, Following of the Star and the Motor Maid.

The Library is open from 7 to 8 p. m. daily, except Sundays and holidays; and between 2:30 and 5 o'clock on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

Librarian.

CALIFORNIA FESTIVAL

GRAND CELEBRATION TO BE HELD ON SEPTEMBER 6, 7, 8 AND 9 UNDER
THE AUSPICES OF THE WOMAN'S CLUB

On September 6, 7, 8 and 9 the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club will hold a grand celebration. One of the features will be a wonderful collection of relics, paintings and interesting objects of all sorts, which will be held in the old mission itself.

The mission and cloisters are undergoing a thorough restoration, the aim being to make them as near like the original as possible, using, wherever practicable, the original material. In one place the thatching underneath the tile roof has been carried out exactly as done by the Indians.

Following is the program:

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6.

6 p. m.—American Supper in the Plaza near the original Bear Flag Pole.

7 p. m.—Grand opening of the Art and Relics Loan, in the old Mission, with promenade concert.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

12 m. to 1 p. m.—German Lunch in plaza.

10 a. m. to 11 p. m.—Art and Relics Loan.

8 p. m.—In Union Hall, "Yosemite Legends," grand tableaux vivants, illustrating the Indian Legends as written by Allen Dunn and set to music by H. J. Steward. A wonderful series of living pictures, with specially painted scenery of Yosemite Valley; trees brought bodily from the mountains; correct Indian costumes and beautiful music. This is a production of unique value, and pulsating with genuine California feeling.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 8.

10 a. m. to 11 p. m.—Art and Relics Loan.

3 p. m.—Grand sacred concert in Union Hall.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 9.

12 to 1 p. m.—Spanish and Italian lunches in the plaza.

10 a. m. to 11 p. m.—Art and Relics Loan.

Amusements for Children.

9 p. m.—Grand Ball in the Plaza.

AN ELABORATE PAGEANT

It begins to look as though every lover of fun and recreation would be present at Santa Cruz during the week of July 20 to 28, when the greatest water pageant in the history of Western America will be promulgated under the direction of Mr. Swanson and his associates. The ease with which residents in practically every section of the state can reach Santa Cruz; the attractive round-trip fares offered by the railroads; the moderate rates and accommodations to be secured; and the variety of unique entertainment guaranteed by Manager Swanson, have proven irresistible magnets for hundreds of tired, overworked Californians, who long for a breath of the sea and a jolly vacation with care-free companions.

The re-opening of the Cottage City, where clean, comfortable accommodations may be had at a minimum of expense, has gone far to offset the unfortunate destruction of the Sea Beach Hotel, which burned last week. In addition the new Hotel St. George will add the beautiful Casa del Rey in taking charge of those who wish more elaborate quarters.

Several extra features have been added to the program during the past week. Aviators Bryant and Francis, famous throughout the west for their daring escapades in the air, will be on hand to lend a daily thrill to the festivities. Manager Swanson is now in communication with the Navy Department regarding the two submarines now in San Francisco bay with a view to having them at Santa Cruz for the pageant. It is understood that the Department favors this exhibition of the latest "water bull" dog. Thus it will be possible for visitors to see practically all the modern forms of navigation—on the water, under the water and over the water.

The "Seafarer," America's entry in the Honolulu to San Francisco yacht race, has been invited to participate in the events of this "water week" and will probably be on hand with the winner's flag at her masthead. In addition there will be the sail and swimming races; the parade of decorated floats; the magnificent display of fireworks, bathing, dancing, driving and riding.

Sidney Cavill, perhaps the most famous swimmer on the Pacific coast and the first man who ever swam the Golden Gate, has been appointed as master of ceremonies for all aquatic sports. Cavill, who is at present swimming instructor of the Olympic Club, is already in touch with some of the leading mermaids and mermen of the country, many of whom have already signified their intention of participating in the water contests.

Reservations at the Hotel Casa del Rey are now being made by the management, and will be held until the evening of July 15, or later if assurances of attendance are received.

SIX TO SIXTEEN

On the local diamond yesterday the Sonoma boys defeated the A. I. B. Samuels, of San Francisco, by a score of 6 to 16.

The visiting team did excellent infield work, but were unable to hold the Sonoma boys down.

The main features of the game led by Jack Canevari, who sent the ball way over center field, and made two home runs.
The batteries were: Sonoma—Helberg, Jensen and Val Quadsen. A. I. B. Samuels—Gardner and Tanconi.
Sunday the Richmond Athletic Club will play the Sonoma boys. A hotly contested game is promised, and the fans should be out in force.

BASE BALL NEWS

BY A. FANN.

Sonoma defeated the Potrero club of San Francisco, last Sunday afternoon by a score of 12 to 8. The game was featured by heavy batting by both teams. The score was:

Sonoma.....12 11 4
Potrero Club.....8 10 6
Batteries—Sonoma—Helberg, Greeley and Valquadsen.

Petro Club—Trant and Graham. Left fielder Leiser played his position like Ty Cobb.

Canevari wielded the "big stick" with telling effect. Jack seldom hits for less than two bases.
Catcher Valquadsen fattened his batting average by slamming out two safeties.

Al Jensen played a fine game on first base for the Greens.

Third-sacker La Torres hit the ball when the hits meant scores. Besides bringing in five runs, he made two himself.

Otto Dresel is playing shortstop for Sonoma.

Greeley gave some fine demonstrations in the art of bunting. Ben succeeded twice.

The official scorer holds the book. Until he computes the batting averages, each player will be a "Ping Bodie" in disguise.

Pitcher Trant, of the Potrero Club, was a pretty fair southpaw. However his team-mates were unsteady and Trant could do nothing.

There will be a game Sunday afternoon between the home team and some city club. Here's hoping we take another.

Results of other games played in the valley last Sunday: El Verano 2, Juvenile Clothiers 1, Tourists 1, Glen Ellen 10.

FACE TO FACE.

A New Problem For Women.

In the looking-glass a woman often sees wrinkles, hollow cheeks under the eyes, gray hair—all because she did not turn to the right remedy when worn down with those troubles which are distinctly feminine. Backache, lassitude, nervousness and the pains and drains of womanhood bring such untold suffering that the face is sure to show it.

Every woman, young or old, is well protected from the blues, nervousness, backache, and the many symptoms of disease so prevalent among our women—if they will conscientiously take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a safe and sure remedy for the ills of womanhood, because it contains not a particle of alcohol, digitalis or any deleterious drugs. Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by this splendid prescription which was used by Doctor Pierce in his large private practice in the specialty of women's diseases. Every woman troubled in this way should write him about her case, cure of Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many times women call on their family physicians, endeavoring as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their physicians and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he assumes them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality they are only symptoms caused by some womb disease. The physician ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages this practice until large bills are made. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and insinuating comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said that "a disease known is half cured." In cases almost innumerable, after all other medicines had failed to help and doctors had said there was no cure possible, the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, supplemented, when necessary, by the medical advice and counsel of Dr. Pierce, has resulted in a perfect and permanent cure.

THE SECRET OUT.

To refute the many false and malicious attacks, bogus formulae and other untruthful statements published concerning Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines, the Doctor has decided to publish all the ingredients entering into them and place the same on the wrapper inclosing each bottle. The exact working formula for making these medicines cost Dr. Pierce and his collaborating Chemists and Pharmacists many years of study and experiments, but as perfected they produce almost perfect pharmaceutical compounds, embodying all the active, medicinal principles residing in the ingredients employed and preserving them perfectly for any length of time and in any climate without the use of a drop of alcohol.

These are the Original Little Liver Pills, first put up over 40 years ago, by old Dr. E. V. Pierce. They've been much imitated but never equaled. Smallest, easiest to take and best. They're tiny sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, a compound of refined vegetable matter. Without disturbance or trouble, constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick and bilious headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved and cured. Permanently cured, too. By their mild and natural action, these Little Pills gently lead the system into natural ways again. Their influence lasts.

A DONATION

By OLIVER J. LARNED

"You think you would make a good burglar, do you—never get caught and all that? I'd like to see you try it. A silk stocking like you would soon be taken. You wouldn't have the coolness to save yourself."

"I wouldn't mind trying it just once."

"I'll give you an inducement. I'll bet you a hundred you won't go into the house of some eminently respectable family—whom you don't know, mind you—and rob them of some article."

"That's just the kind of a job I'd like to try. The danger in it would make it fearfully interesting."

"And if you got caught it would give you an excellent opportunity to show your presence of mind."

"So it would. I think I'll go you."

"Here's my check. We'll put the stakes in Hawkins' hands."

This dialogue occurred between Dick Thurston and Ned Chamberlin at a club, and the next night Chamberlin in evening dress sallied forth to burglarize a gentleman's dwelling. He walked slowly up an aristocratic avenue, and, selecting a house midway between two street lamps and standing well back in shadow, he entered the yard and, taking the parts of a burglar's jimmy from his side pocket, began to screw them together in order to secure the length of handle required for leverage. Then, mounting a side porch, he pried up a window and entered a room.

He stood listening awhile, but, hearing no sound, began to explore. A faint light from without barely enabled him to move without stumbling against anything, and he got his hand on a large uncovered table. Suspecting he was in a drawing room, he was hunting for the sideboard, when there was a sudden burst of light. A young lady stood at the door of the room, with her finger on an electric button. She appeared astonished, but at first she made no sound, but some one in evening costume.

Chamberlin braced himself for the encounter. It was his right, under the provisions of the bet, to tell any story he pleased, and he decided to tell the true one.

"I beg pardon for the trespass," he said, "but I am sure—that is, if you are a woman of the world—I shall have your sympathy after you have heard the reason for my being here. Last night at the club I bet a friend a hundred dollars that I would burglarize a dwelling, bringing him some article to prove the robbery. If you will permit me to take away a spoon I will be happy to donate my winnings to any charity you may suggest."

The girl by this time had regained her composure, for Chamberlin spoke softly and did not seem one to be afraid of. Nevertheless she considered him to be one of those villains who dress themselves like gentlemen for the purpose of aiding them to hood-wink whoever they may meet. She pretended to believe his story and, going to a sideboard, opened a drawer and took out a silver spoon with the family initial letter on it. This she tossed on the dining table and stood waiting for him to withdraw. He saw by the pallor on her face and other signs that she was badly frightened, and he felt a pang at having caused her annoyance. So instead of going at once he stopped to reassure her. Taking a card from his pocket and a pencil, he asked her to what institution he should send a donation. She was not especially interested in any and for a moment could not think of any. While she was trying to do so an elderly "gentleman," with a gray mustache, stepped into the room.

The girl turned paler still, for that were possible, fearing that the story would not go down with the new-comer and there would be trouble.

"Uncle," she said, "this gentleman has made a bet that he would rob this house."

"Indeed?" said the uncle quietly.

"Yes, at the club. He is to win $100 and give it to any charity I may suggest."

"A hundred dollars! That's no price for a gentleman burglar to pay for the privilege of robbing a house. He might have got away with $5,000 or $6,000 worth of property. Couldn't you make it $1,000, sir?"

Chamberlin was very rich, but rich men don't like to part with their money any better than poor men. He said he might double the amount of his winnings. The gentleman stepped to a telephone in the hall and called for a police station.

Chamberlin was cornered. He called out that he would make his donation $1,000.

"I have called the police," said the gentleman. "It will now cost $2,000."

"Done!" cried Chamberlin, fearing that before he could assent the price of his experiment would go up another thousand.

"All right," remarked the gentleman. "Never mind the police. Have you a blank check in your pocket, sir? If so please make the amount payable to St. Luke's hospital."

Chamberlin, who carried a check-book always with him, wrote a check for $2,000 and handed it to the gentleman, who took it and said:

"Goodnight, this is Mr. Chamberlin. I met him once at my club, but he has forgotten me. He can afford to pay for any break in which he may choose to indulge."

"Goodness gracious!" from Gwen.

There is more Caterth in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Caterth to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Caterth Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

THE LOAFER.

Tom Browne, the English Artist, and One of His Models.

Tom Browne, the English black and white artist, told the following story of one of his models: I used to have as a model a long, thin youth who was a water color study of him and put in a street corner background. Before sending it to the frame maker's I wrote on the back in pencil a suggestion for a possible future title, "A Loafer." The frame maker after framing the sketch put it in his window until such time as he could send it up to me, with a card on the picture bearing the title, "A Loafer—By Tom Browne."

One morning a caddy came to the side door and asked to speak to me.

"There's a picture of me in a shop window down in Greenwich."

"Really?"

"Yes, an' all me pul's 'ave seen it." (With a sudden fury.) "I ain't no loafer, I ain't. I'm a respectable caddy, I am, and you've got to take it out of the window."

I assured him that I knew nothing of the matter and was very sorry.

"That he blowed for a title," he retorted. "I'll make yer p're caddies for this, I've been to my solicitor, and 'e sez 'e can make yer."

In the end I fixed it up by a little tip, an old coat and a drop of something. Of course I had the picture taken out of the window. The caddy had not said for me since.

A Caustic Rejoinder.

A physician who had for fifteen years been one of the doctors of the Actors' fund and who attended hundreds of actors with no compensation whatever, wrote to a prominent manager and asked for some theater tickets.

His request was refused, the manager asking what the doctor had ever done that he should be entitled to receive theater tickets gratis. The physician immediately replied. His letter contained a brief recital of his services to theatrical people. In conclusion he said: "Despite my services, as named above, I should not have thought of asking you for tickets had it not been that upon the occasion of the death of Mr. Blank you assured me that if you could ever serve me in any way whatever you would consider it a favor if I would call upon you. However, I hear you no ill will on account of my present action. I was very glad to attend Mr. Blank when he was in your box office, and I should be happy to do as much for you at any time."

Tom Corwin's Education.

The father of Tom Corwin, the famous Kentucky statesman, orator and wit, felt that he was too poor to make a scholar of more than one child of his large family, and so the elder brother, Matthias, was kept at school and Thomas placed on hard work on the farm. The breaking of a leg proved a happy incident in the life of the boy, as the enforced confinement gave him time for devotion to his beloved books, and he committed a Latin grammar to memory. Upon his recovery he again impudently broke his leg the second time. He might as well have studied, for his determination to learn resulted in his being placed in the same institution attended by his brother, where his natural ability and great industry gathered a thorough knowledge of the best English literature and a fair acquaintance with the Latin classics.—Ohio Magazine.

Why Horses Shy.

The horse shied at a piece of white paper, and the rider tumbled off into the mud.

"It is well for the world," said an automobilist, smiling, "that it is ceasing to use the horse for a servant. The horse is a half blind giant, with the mind of a baby. No wonder, then, that when we trust our lives in his keeping he is apt to go back on us."

"His main trouble is his eyes. So poor is the horse's sight that he mistakes a bank of snow for a fierce white beast. A mud puddle at his feet is a yawning chasm. A shadow flung across his path is a black terror seeking his life; hence the weak-minded, nearsighted, powerful horse goes through life beside himself with fear. He is no more to be trusted than a maniac, and, like a maniac, he sees a monster awaiting him at every corner. Yet we get on his back, fools that we are."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The farmers of the Coachella valley are getting splendid returns from their crops. Onion growers are netting from $150 to $500 an acre. Figs, apricots and Malaga grapes are now being marketed.

Tinsel is one of the few Christmas tree ornaments manufactured in the United States, for Germany is the home of the Christmas tree decoration, and even the raw material used in the manufacture is imported from that country. It consists of spoils of wire almost as thin as sewing silk and is purchased by the pound, a duty of five cents per pound being levied by the United States customs.

Last year one Christmas tree ornament factory in Baltimore imported 60,000 pounds of this tinsel wire. This factory conducts the largest tinsel-making business in the United States, and has an entire floor of a big building taken up by the galvanizing machines, which turn out thousands of yards of glittering tree decorations. The work goes on continuously throughout the year, and several hundred people are employed.

How much work is done daily by each bee in order to make up his quota for the building of the hive? An agriculturalist who has made a study of bees estimates that each bee sips more than 600 flowers per load, and as he makes 20 trips to and from the hive daily he visits 12,000 flowers.

An Historic London Street. Lendenhall street was so called from the lead roofed mansion of Sir Hugh Nevill, which the city acquired for a court of justice. Few London streets possess more interesting literary and historical associations. Here Peter Motteux, the translator of "Don Quixote," kept "an East India shop," and Gibbon's great-grandfather "did not aspire above the station of a linen draper in Lendenhall street." East India House, where Charles Lamb and the two Mills were clerks, stood on the south side of the street, and 150 and 157 occupy the site where the little midshipman in "Donkey and Son" used to hang.—Westminster Gazette.

Too Ready to Quit. "It is very kind of you to ask me to be your wife, but I must refuse. I hope you will not hurry away and do anything rash."

"Don't worry about that. I merely wanted to be sure that we understood each other."

Willed Away the Laundry.

When a perfectly strange woman came for the soiled clothes the mistress of the house came to the conclusion that her own laundress had simply employed a new messenger and made no comment on the circumstances.

But when two weeks had gone by and still the old laundress, known as Susan, no last name having been mentioned, did not appear the mistress of the house felt that she would be lacking in her duty if she did not make some inquiry about her.

"Where is Susan?" she asked the tall and bony structure who came for the clothes.

"She has gone to Pennsylvania to live, ressum," returned this person, with composure. "She went to Pennsylvania some time ago, an' she left goodby fer yuh, but s' long ex yuh didn't seem tuh notis I didn't say nuffin'."

"But why didn't she come and tell me and allow me to make some arrangements about my laundry?" asked Susan's ex-mistress.

"Well, she left 'er clothes tuh me. She made a will an' left dem clothes tuh me. Wese alius been good friends, and so 'en she left she say I may wash 'er clothes long ex I wash tuh an' dere wuz no use worryin' yuh 'bout it, now was dere?"

To which moderate and sensible question the mistress of the house could only remain speechless.—Baltimore News.

Satisfied Her Curiosity. A certain south side lady has come to the conclusion that curiosity can no longer be indulged in with any degree of safety. One night she entertained a group of friends and at the moment of departure, when conversation always lags a trifle, her eye fell idly on a package carried by one of the men.

"What is it you have there?" she asked, with hardly a thought of what she was saying.

"Well," said another guest, springing forward, with mock indignation, "if he's going to be searched, I feel that all of us should be subjected to the same indignity."

"Oh, I!" commenced the hostess, her face flushing—"I give you my word that—"

"I can prove the ownership of this watch," cried one man.

"This was my mother's ring," explained another. And so it went down the line until the laugh came just in time to save the life of the hostess.

Hereafter one of her guests can walk off with the grand piano and be free from remark.—Kansas City Independent.

Worth the Difference. A big jobber sent an aspiring young man on the road to open up a new territory where a new railroad was going through. All the towns being new, there were no hotel accommodations, and it was necessary for the salesman to secure meals and lodging at restaurants, etc., where the price was 25 cents per meal. On looking over the expense account the manager noticed all meals charged at 50 cents.

"Look here, Charlie, I see you have charged us 50 cents per meal on your trip, and I am reliably informed that it is impossible to get a meal for more than 25 cents in your entire territory. How about it?"

"Well," said the salesman, "you are right. It did cost me but 25 cents per meal, but I tell you, sir, it's worth the other 25 to eat those meals."—New York Times.

"Do you pay your servants by the week or by the month?"

"Mercy. How long do you think they stay with us? We have to pay them by the hour."—New Orleans Picayune.
